Margate Attends Florida League of Cities 81st Annual Educational Conference and Business Meeting

Margate, Fla., August 23, 2007 – Mayor David McLean and Vice Mayor Pam Donovan of the City of Margate traveled to Orlando for the annual business meeting and educational conference of the Florida League of Cities. Held August 16-17, 2007 at the Orlando World Center Marriot, this event provided a broad range of learning opportunities for elected officials combined with organizational business sessions.

The meeting offered city officials several workshops and general sessions designed to help them develop new skills, learn from other officials and gather information that can help improve city operations in their respective cities.

“The conference was filled with information-packed workshops, opportunities to speak to vendors who showcased cutting-edge municipal technology and time for exchange with our colleagues to discuss solving mutual problems,” said McLean.

Workshops presented included: The Future of Property Taxes in Florida, Determining City Budget Policies in a Cut-Back Era, The Florida Legislative Process from the perspectives of Former City Officials, Rethinking Public Leadership for Troubled Times, Running Effective Meetings, and many more.
